31 Decrees of Blessing Your Work Life Leading Voice of Faith in the Workplace on Upholding Christian Values at Work

Atlanta, GA – Most of us spend much of our time at work, where we contribute our efforts and talents. For many Christians, the workplace is another environment in which we may choose to express and share our faith, which holds us to a greater standard when it comes to our job performance.

Os Hillman, author of 31 Decrees of Blessing for Your Work Life (BroadStreet Publishing), believes it is critical for Christians to pray for God's presence in their workplace and to utilize his Word to ensure success and impact (see Col. 3:23).

Hillman, the president of Marketplace Leaders, an organization that helps others discover and fulfill God's calling through their work, teaches readers that blessings can come from praying decrees when we pair decrees with both a maturity in faith and a leading of the Holy Spirit, not from name-it-and-claim it heresy (see Romans 8:14).

In 31 Decrees of Blessing for Your Work Life, Hillman shares thirty-one biblical promises to decree over your career, coworkers, community, and family. Some of the topics and values that Hillman examines include:

- The Purpose of a Christian-Owned Business: God gives us the ability to create wealth in order to establish his kingdom on Earth. A portion of whatever we earn should be directed to help the poor. God used Boaz's generosity to bless Ruth, an ancestor of both David and Jesus (see Ruth 2:3).
- Finding Favor with Clients/Customers: Christians should commit themselves to strive for excellence, work with integrity, apply servant leadership, and pray for miracles. We bring glory to God and set an example for others on behalf of Christ when we live out these attributes (see Ps. 5:12).
- The Power of a Unified Team: Jesus said more people would hear and believe in him when his followers worked as a unified team. Unified teams yield incredible results when operating with righteous motives (see John 17:21).
- Protection During Uncertainty: We reveal the placement of our trust whenever that source is removed or becomes inaccessible. Despite life's challenges and uncertainties, it is important for us to remember that God is our Provider. In times of need or fear, we must trust only in him, asking for his grace to abound (see Hab. 3:17).
- The Importance of Praising God: The key to overcoming difficulties is to praise God for his blessings and for making all things work together, even when we don't realize it. The Prophet Isaiah overcame his depression by praising God even through trials (see Ps. 63:3-5).
- Financial Prosperity: The Bible does not teach that every Christian is guaranteed financial prosperity, but if we use our skills and abilities to apply Scripture to our lives, then we will be blessed. Because Solomon applied the wisdom that God had bestowed upon him, God blessed him with riches, wealth, and honor (see Deut. 8:18).
